

The Association for Hospital Medical Education (AHME) is continually seeking ways to support members in their mission to provide an outstanding educational experience for medical students, residents and faculty and, in so doing, to enhance the quality of care delivered in their institutions. Many AHME members are already subscribers to the American Medical Association (AMA) Introduction to the Practice of Medicine (IPM) Program and have found it to be a highly effective way to educate residents about a whole host of critical topics and to efficiently track their completion of this curriculum. Recognizing the impact these resources could have in your institutions, we have developed a relationship with the AMA to make the IPM Program available to AHME members at a discounted rate. Therefore, on behalf of AHME President Marilane Bond, EdD, MEd, MBA, and the entire AHME leadership team, I am very pleased to encourage you to learn more about how you, your residents, and your institution could benefit from the AMA IPM Program.

Dear AHME Members,

The AMA is delighted to announce our new partnership with AHME that will offer you a 10% discount on our Introduction to the Practice of Medicine (IPM) Program. IPM is a web-based educational series that helps residents and their institutions address the Milestones and general competencies required by the ACGME. Our course library includes 38 interactive learning modules and you have the option of customizing your curriculum to best meet your needs. IPM also offers extensive reporting features to track and document resident progress. It can be purchased for an entire institution, or can be acquired just for the use of specific programs. Every resident that an institution provides with access to IPM may also take advantage of individual AMA membership at no additional cost.

AMA will be exhibiting at the 2016 AHME Institute May 18-20. If you are interested in scheduling an onsite demo, please email chelsea.homer@ama-assn.org or call (312) 464-2421. If you are unable to attend, you can also schedule an online demo at a time that is more convenient for you. We are committed to supporting individual residents as they aim to meet the daily rigors of their training as well as the long term commitment they make to their careers in medicine. We look forward to providing significant value to AHME members and their institutions.

James Gilligan
