

Association for Hospital Medical Education

GME Financing:
What Program Managers and Coordinators Need to Know
Tuesday, December 2, 2014
1:00-2:00 p.m. Eastern

The intent of this teleconference is to provide graduate medical education (GME) administrators and coordinators with a general understanding of GME costs and reimbursement methods. Special emphasis will be placed on the importance of GME financing, how these funds are calculated and appropriated, and the role of GME leadership in ensuring that these funds are properly designated and received by their institutions.

Objectives:

At the end of this teleconference session, learners should be able to:

- Understand the general policy goal of GME reimbursement;
- Articulate the difference between direct GME and indirect medical education costs and payments; and
- Explain how information they provide to their hospitals flows through to governmental agencies.

Speaker:

Tim Johnson is Senior Vice President and Executive Director for GME Policy and Services at the Greater New York Hospital Association (GNYHA). Mr. Johnson provides assistance to program and finance staff in teaching hospitals on topics such as Medicare GME reimbursement, special state funding programs, resident work hours, and resident accreditation and certification. Mr. Johnson has been with GNYHA since 1994.

Moderator:

Quinn Turner, MS, C-TAGME is Manager of Medical Education Administration and Coordinator of the Transitional Year and Podiatric Medicine Residency programs at Iowa Methodist Medical Center in Des Moines. Mr. Turner is Chair of AHME's Council of Program Administrators and Coordinators (COPAC).
