

Patient Safety and Quality Improvement: Building the GME Platform

Tuesday, January 22, 2013 ~ 1:00-2:00 p.m. Eastern

A price-conscious, value-packed teleconference

As we all know, Patient Safety and Quality Improvement is a major component of the Next Accreditation System (NAS) Clinical Learning Environment Review (CLER). This teleconference will provide you with practices to implement a solid Patient Safety and Quality program to your medical education learning environment.

Objectives:

At the end of this teleconference session, the learner should be able to:

- List the forces driving a renewed commitment to patient safety and quality improvement;
- Summarize historical milestones in patient safety and quality;
- Differentiate the old GME accreditation system and the Next Accreditation System (NAS);
- Identify the science of quality;
- Outline the key components of the MSM GME Patient Safety and Quality Improvement Curriculum; and
- Recognize the emerging links between patient safety/quality, payment, certification and CME.

Speaker:

Lawrence Sanders, MD, MBA, earned his undergraduate degree in chemistry from Clemson University. He is a graduate of Vanderbilt University Medical School in Nashville, Tennessee. He completed a residency in Internal Medicine at Emory University School of Medicine. Additionally, Dr. Sanders earned a Masters of Business Administration from the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania. He is currently an Associate Professor of Medicine and the Chair of the Morehouse School of Medicine Patient Safety and Quality Workgroup.

Moderator:

Coyea ET Kizzie, MHA, CM, is the Associate Director of Graduate Medical Education at Morehouse School of Medicine. She's been an active member of AHME since 2007. Coyea is a member of the Board of Directors and the Chair of the Council of Administrative Directors of Medical Education.
